

BWF Members' Day 2022

The summary below provides a flavour of each of the drop in zones that will be available to visit throughout the day and who you can expect to find in each one.

BWF Skills & Training Zone

BWF Skills and Training

Tony Batchelor, BWF Training Manager will be joined by the Construction Industry Training Board (CITB) to answer any questions you have on training, funding and grants.

Recruiting New Industry Entrants

Come and find out more about TalentView and see a live demonstration of their new TalentView Construction platform.

Immersive Learning Zone

BWF Timber Component Interactive Learning Tool

Enjoy live demonstrations of the new gaming technology based learning tool available to BWF members. The ILT offers learners the opportunity to explore modules in timber stairs, windows and fire doors.

Brush up on your paint spraying skills and enter the competition on the SIMSPRAY

A painter's skill is defined by dexterity, a reliable hand, constant speed, regular angles and good wrist position. The SIMSPRAY uses VIRTUAL REALITY to produce different multiple controlled environments where trainees can practice with reduced material costs and zero impact on the environment.

Training tools for safer learning

The carpentry and woodworking profession can be dangerous. This is especially true when trainees have just begun to familiarize themselves with the machines, hand positioning and the precise movements. The WOOD-ED TABLE creates a safe environment for trainees to acquire proper gestures for wood cutting.

BWF Membership Zone

BWF Membership Benefits and Services

Robert Allinson, BWF Membership Manager will be available all day to talk anything and everything BWF Membership. From Code of Conduct audits and the new BWF Connect platform through to the BWF Awards, Robert and the team will be there to assist with your query.

BWF Technical Zone

BWF Technical Enquiries

Kevin Underwood, BWF Technical Director and Stevie Taylor, BWF Technical Officer will be available to answer your questions on technical matters from U-Values, amendments to the Building Regulations, Health and Safety and Building Safety Bill Update.
